Weiser School Clinician Award

"On May 29, 1998, Nicole Weiser died suddenly and tragically. Her dream was to become a speech-language pathologist and help people with communication disorders. The Memorial Fund ...enables NSU ... to promote scholarship and clinical excellence by helping deserving young men and women fulfill the dream that Nicole never realized."

Stuart Weiser, Nicole's father

To recognize school-based speech-language clinicians, the Weiser School Clinician award seeks applications from students currently enrolled in the Programs for Communication Sciences and Disorders at Nova Southeastern University. Eligible students must have at least a bachelor's degree, have at least one year experience in the public schools, and must be currently working in the schools. To be eligible for consideration, the applicant must submit:

- ❑ The application form (see below)
- ❑ A letter discussing:
 - ❑ Professional interests
 - ❑ Personal achievements
 - ❑ Financial need.
- ❑ In addition, the applicant must obtain a letter of recommendation from a school supervisor who is in a position to evaluate professional skills. Please have the writer send the letter directly to the program at the address below.

Application Deadline: ALL materials must be received by February 17th.
Awards will be announced in March of each year.
